

THAW TO RENEW RELEASE FIGHT

Will Be Central Figure in Two Investigations, About San-ity and Bribe Charge.

EXPECTS TO GO FREE

Talk of Being Called Before the Grand Jury Gives White's Slayer Confidence.

New York, March 2.—With the assembling of the March grand jury at the criminal term of the Supreme Court to-morrow, Harry K. Thaw will become the central figure in two investigations touching upon his release from Matteawan. While Justice Seabury is charging the grand jury which will inquire into the $25,000 fund for Thaw's release from the State asylum, Charles Kennedy, his latest legal adviser, will be putting the finishing touches to his plans for Thaw's legal discharge.

ES-CORT NAMED FOR BALL.

The National Democratic Association announced last night that the committee to escort the President to the inaugural ball at the Arcade March 4 will consist of Senator Martins of New Jersey, Representative Thomas J. Scully of New Jersey, and A. E. McLaughlin.

THAW HOLDS CONFERENCE.

Thaw had a long talk with Horace A. Brown, his agent, at Matteawan this afternoon. He is eager for the case to be put upon his mental condition in the habeas corpus proceeding which has been instituted. He is eager, also, to appear before the grand jury which will investigate the facts in connection with the $25,000 fund, revelations concerning which resulted in the reelection of Superintendent Russell, of Matteawan.

It is learned that it was upon the advice of Dr. Kennedy that Thaw declined to testify before the Governor's committee of inquiry at Matteawan last Wednesday.

"I advised Mr. Thaw not to testify there," said Dr. Kennedy, "but he knew himself before being advised by me that it would be inadvisable for him to testify under the circumstances. But I shall not object to him testifying before the grand jury. I don't think that would do him a bit of harm."

As a matter of fact, no concealment is made by Thaw's friends of the fact that they would be very glad to have him testify before the grand jury, and there is a very strong belief on the part of some that even the suggestion that he appear before the grand jury is a considerable point in his behalf. That the Carville committee was willing to take his testimony, it is urged, is evidence that the committee did not regard him as so crazy that his evidence was not worth having, and that the possibility of calling him before the grand jury is being considered, it is urged, is evidence of a legal doubt of Thaw's insanity.

THAW TO FIGHT CASE.

Another hard-fought proceeding is looked for in any event, since Attorney General Carmody has indicated that former District Attorney Jerome, who originally prosecuted Thaw, will again be retained to assist his liberation. The old battle of the alienists will therefore be waged once more. New and interesting developments are expected, however, since the counsel who have now been retained by Thaw are medico-legal experts.

John Nicholson Anshut, whom Dr. Russell says offered him a bribe to declare Thaw sane, and who had been retained by Thaw on Dr. Russell's advice, had been eliminated from the case. Mr. Anshut, who was to begin a new proceeding for Thaw's liberation, took the case on a $25,000 contingent fee, half of which was to be returned, according to his sworn testimony, if Thaw was not out by January 1, 1913, and the balance to be returned if Thaw was not free by June 1, 1913.

With $10,000 of this fee still in Mr. Anshut's hands, according to the latter's statement, Thaw has now engaged new counsel to secure his discharge from Matteawan before Mr. Anshut has made any open move to that end. As late as last Friday, Mr. Anshut declared that he was still counsel for Thaw, though admitted that he had not seen his client since the Carville committee began its investigation of the $25,000 fee.

FLOOD THREATENS AUGUSTA, GA.

Savannah, Ga., March 1.—A report received here to-day from Augusta states that the Savannah River has overflowed its banks, and that the lowlands of the city are inundated. A serious flood is threatened.

HEARY S. HANKEN DEAD.

Troy, March 1.—Henry Stearns Hanken, for many years a prominent manufacturer at Cohoes, and largely identified with banking interests, is dead at his home in Albia, aged seventy-five.

CHICAGO BOWLERS WIN MAJORITY OF EVENTS

Five Windy City Teams in the Toledo Tourney Lead in the Doubles.

BIG BATTLE IS FOUGHT

Toledo, Ohio, March 2.—The American bowling congress, in progress here, became largely a Chicago event to-day when, at the close of the doubles and singles, five Chicago teams lead in the doubles and seven in the singles. Early in the day Small and Drew, of the Windy City, came home with 1,285, which placed them fourth. Wood and Leigh, also of Chicago, were the next best for the day in the two-man event, counting 1,175.

It was in the individuals, however, that a big battle took place, the lead seeing back and forth, until Billy Spencer, of Chicago, rolling late in the afternoon, marked up 625, beating out Wagner, of Cincinnati, by ten pins. Immediately after Spencer had passed into the lead, Bliss, another Chicago roller, threatened to pass him, but missed an easy spare in the tenth.

Another bowler to go to the front was Kurimann, of Cincinnati, whose 611 placed him fifth. Wallace, of Chicago, scored 614 for eighth place, while Frazee, of Columbus, rolled into eleventh with 609.

WILSON, OF CHICAGO, SCORED 610 ON THE LAST SPOT, BEING FIFTH.

GRAVE OF HIS MOTHER LOST.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 2.—Alleging his mother's grave was wantonly opened without his knowledge and the body reburied in some place unknown to him or the present officials of the cemetery company, David N. Names has filed suit in the Superior Court here against the Fairlawn Cemetery Corporation for $15,000.

PEOPLE SHOULD JUDGE MUSIC FOR THEMSELVES

Daniel Gregory Mason So Tells Audience During His Lecture on Beethoven.

"Judge all music for yourself" was the final plea of Daniel Gregory Mason in the last of his course of five lectures on the great masters of music under the auspices of the Washington Society of the Fine Arts, given last night before an appreciative audience which filled the auditorium of the New National Museum.

In summing up the practical value to be gained by those who attended the course, Prof. Mason urged all to learn a lesson from the trials of these great masters of music in winning intelligent appreciation of their work.

"We will have great American composers," declared Prof. Mason, "when Americans judge music with unbiased and honest criticism." In this the speaker said that he did not advocate the catering to the whims of the crowd nor the melodies which appeal only to the man in the street. He also gave warning against the modern fadists, whom he declared are only looking for the something strange in musical composition.

He then urged all who had gained a better knowledge of how to listen to music to impart it to some one else. Prof. Mason said that by listening to new compositions with musical sense, open-mindedness, and unprejudiced opinion, the modern composers would be given a chance to show their ability to use the knowledge at hand, to produce a superior music which will take its place in the gradual development of musical composition to the ideal.

Last night Prof. Mason discussed Beethoven as pioneer in the field of progressive music. In a former lecture he spoke of the ideal perfection of classic beauty to which Beethoven had brought the symphonic form, and of the great individuality of his treatment of that form. Last night he spoke of Beethoven's departure in his last period from pure intellectual formal beauty to the delineation of characteristic sights and sounds, which is descriptive of actualities, is to be found in such compositions as the sonatas which he designated "Les Adieux," "L'Absence," in the op. 81 and op. 82, in the pastoral symphony (the sixth), the fifth, and the eighth. He himself wrote to the movements for the pastoral symphony: "The Awakening of Happy Feelings on Arriving in the Country," "Scene by the Brook," "Merry Gathering of Peasants," "Thunder Storm," "Shepherd Song," "Rejoicing After the Storm." But his music never descended into the realm of photography—the characteristic is always in his music evenly balanced by the purely beautiful form. He never carried the programme type to the point of necessity to be explained by a programme.

The great success that has attended this course of lectures under the auspices of the Fine Arts Society should be the source of much gratification to that society.

MACLAINE TO GO ON STAGE.

Grazer of 35,000 Scotch Acres Will Work to Save Estates.

London, March 1.—MacLaine of Lochbule, head of the famous Clan MacLaine, owner of 35,000 acres on the Isle of Mull, Scotland, and grandson of the Duke of Argyll, who is at present the King of England, will go on the vaudeville stage in America to save his estate. MacLaine said that the idea was the result of a conversation he had with Mrs. Benjamin Guinness, of New York, whom he met at Dewart Castle, near Lochbule.

TAFT TELLS PRESS CLUB GOOD-BY President Says When He Takes Stock of His Experiences He Feels Grateful.

President Taft went to the National Press Club last night to say good-by to the Washington newspaper men. In a brief talk to them he took stock of his career, and ended by saying: "After this much, do you suppose I would regard a defeat for office as an occasion for kicking or squealing. Indeed, no. The ledger is all on my side."

Mr. Taft said that when he took stock of his experiences, he could not help but feel grateful for what has happened to him. Looking back on the good things that have been his for fifty-five years, he said he felt that he must brace himself against what the future will bring to even things up.

"To be well brought up until twenty-one years old and then pushed into the water and told to swim," Mr. Taft said, "is the best fortune that can come to a man." He added that this fortune had been his, and then he proceeded to tell the modern composers would be given a chance to show their ability to use the knowledge at hand, to produce a superior music which will take its place in the gradual development of musical composition to the ideal.

JOAQUIN MILLER SENDS MESSAGE TO HIS WIDOW

Relict of Poet of the Sierras Declares Her Husband Talked with Her.

San Francisco, Cal., March 1.—Joaquin Miller's great passion to teach the world the lesson of the "ascending soul" and "life after life" has triumphed even over death, according to Mrs. Abbie Miller, his widow, who declared to-day that she had received a "spirit message" from the beloved poet of the Sierras.

Miller died twelve days ago in his home in the hills back of Fruitvale. Ever since then, his wife says, she has been waiting to hear from him. She has always possessed mediumistic powers, she claims, and her husband had always been a student of the psychic.

Her daughter Juanita doubts the genuineness of the message. The message, which the poet is supposed to have sent from the portals of heaven, came to Mrs. Miller, according to her account, while she sat in front of her home looking at the lovely scenes of earth that her husband had loved so well.

"I am close to you," said the voice. "Do you not feel my presence? Do not worry nor grieve. I will reach up and attain the heights which I could not reach when encumbered and enchained by the grosser elements. The shackles have fallen off, and I am free. I stand with hands raised in worship to the throne of grace. You will hear from me again, and more fully than in the past."

CASTRO BACK AGAIN.

Arrives in Key West on Way to Capital for Inauguration.

Key West, Fla., March 1.—Cipriano Castro, accompanied by his cousin and secretary arrived from Havana on the steamer Gov. Cobb, this evening and was asked many questions by the immigrant authorities, one of which was where was his home. In reply Castro pointed his finger toward heaven.

He said the report that he had received a special invitation from Mr. Wilson to attend the inauguration was false. He goes as a private individual, he says, and certainly appreciates being able to see how we inaugurate Presidents. In case his country should call him to be their President again, he will be able to show how the Americans do it. He said the Cubans gave him a great reception, but he was glad to come back to the country of the brave and the free and was satisfied that he would be allowed to remain here.

AUTOMOBILE HITS HYDRANT.

Early Morning Smash in Trying to Avoid Collision.

New York, March 1.—In attempting to avoid a collision about 2 o'clock this morning, Frederick Bruns, a chauffeur, who lives at 74 Willow Street, Hoboken, drove his car onto the sidewalk at the corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-first Street, smashed into a fire hydrant, and damaged his car so that it had to be abandoned.

Bruns is employed by Charles F. Harbo, a contractor, with offices at 17 South Street, and who lives at 327 Castle Point Terrace, Hoboken. In the car at the time of the accident were three of Mr. Harbo's daughters, a fourth young lady, and three young men. None of them was hurt. They were on their way home from a restaurant.

FIRE IMPERILS FAMILY.

Brooklyn Blaze Easily Put Out After Doing $100 Damage.

New York, March 1.—Fire started at 3 o'clock this morning in a two-story frame building at 121 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, which imperiled several lives and did $100 damage. The ground floor is a vacant store, but the second story is occupied by a photograph gallery, owned by John Contro, who lives in the rear with his wife and five children. The fire was discovered by Patrolman Austin, of the Gates Avenue police station, who broke open the doors of the building and assisted Contro and his family to escape to the street. An alarm was sent to Engine Company 214, which, under Capt. Cashman, easily extinguished the flames.

Gymnasium Burns.

Lexington, Va., March 1.—The Washington and Lee gymnasium was completely destroyed by fire early this morning. The building which was a large wooden structure, was fully insured. Plans for a new $50,000 gymnasium are already on foot.

Oriental Rug Buyers' Regrets

Even in buying costly articles that one expects to use a lifetime very often a wrong selection is made. This mistake occurs more frequently in the selection of rugs than any other home furnishings. The color, size, and design that seem fitting at the time of purchase begins to be a constant eyecore as you change the surroundings. That peculiar charm of an Oriental Rug which finds its way to our hearts and becomes a perennial friend, is not always secured. Instead of its wearing well with our moods as the years glide past, and constantly renewing its claim of intellectual companionship, your purchase becomes a source of regret.

It is just then that the worth of Hekimian's Exchange Offer is well appreciated. It is a system by which you can change a rug purchased from us as often as you desire and always be allowed the original purchase price. In short, a rug purchased from us for $50.00 represents $50.00 in our store for years to come.

In addition to the above liberal offer that relieves you of all Regrets, we also make a generous allowance on rugs purchased from other reliable firms.

There are rugs here at every reasonable price, but they must find their homes in exactly the right spots to fulfill the whole purposes of the weavers.

It is part of the work of Hekimian to help determine, whenever called upon, the right rugs for the right spots.
